Jabari Bell

T.347.535.4311
E.jabari.bell@pxlflu.net
W.http://jabaribell.me

Profile

A developer with a design background looking for a challenging environment that allows me to address the development cycle from a top-down structural point of view, and also the challenge of coming up with new, creative ways to engage users.

Experience

senior developer, freelance   09.09~present

senior developer, atmosphere bbdo, ny, ny   11.07~09.09

- Develop interactive solutions for companies such as Monster.com, Starwood Hotels, Emirates, Citibank, and Johnson&Johnson.
- Both led and worked on teams with multiple developers on a single project using versioning control.
- Used patterns and PureMVC framework to help develop library standards for the development team.
- Used Flex 3.0 to develop Starwood's LC site using a pure AS project. Use FDT/Subclipse/Eclipse workflow as well.

senior developer/designer, the run group, ny, ny   03.07~11.07

- Developed widgets and helped to develop coding standards for a smaller shop.
- Used a combination of technologies, PHP, AS to develop online solutions for companies such as Akademiks clothing and Bacardi.
- Also used Indesign and Photoshop to create ads for the company.

developer, optimum applied systems, hawthorne, ny   12.05~03.07

- Used Coldfusion 7 to develop Flash Forms that allowed customers to interact with OAS's HeatComputer.
- Using CF, created a loosely coupled MVC framework to enhance development.

database technician, georgia pacific, atlanta,ga   07.01~01.05

- Used SQL Server 2000 to help manage tasks and routines on GP's databases and servers.

- Used T-SQL to write triggers and stored procedures that updated 500,000+ records daily.

Education

- Morehouse College, Atlanta, GA: BS in Computer Science, 2006, minored in Chinese and Japanese

Skills

C, C++, Objective-C, AS 2.0/3.0, Flex, Eclipse, FDT, Subclipse, Cairngorm, Papervision, OOPD, Patterns, PureMVC, PHP, SVN, CVS, Coldfusion, mySQL, ASUnit, FlexUnit

Awards

Adobe Site of the Day- Monday, 08.10.08